COMMENTS:

This bill would amend the Penal Code to provide that a person who alters, damages, or illegally accesses any data, software, computer, computer system, or network that results in a substantial interruption or impairment of public business and service would be subject to a specific fine and jail time.

The bill also would make other technical changes to the Penal Code.

The May 26, 2000, amendment deleted the earlier language of the bill that would have created the California Organized Crime Suppression Program to provide local law enforcement with tools to combat organized crime.

As a result of the May 26, 2000, amendment, this bill no longer impacts the department's programs and operations or the state's income tax revenue.
